Of interest to: dog breeders, shelters, kennel managers and caretakers, scientists, regulators, students, pet industry personnel, anyone who loves dogs.

Join us in exploring the changing landscape of dog supply and demand. There is an urgent need for problem-solving to help dogs find and stay in new homes. There are new challenges and opportunities facing commercial breeders and other stakeholders as they support canine welfare through responsible practices.

Sessions include:
- Dog imports, trafficking and implications for health and welfare
- Raising the bar on responsibility in commercial breeding: A regulatory perspective from IN
- Why is pre-breeding health screening for dogs important? What every breeder and veterinarian should know
- Adapting responsibly to changing market conditions: Management, breeding decisions, rehoming and business strategies that support canine welfare

This year’s speakers include

- Bret Marsh, DVM Indiana Board of Animal Health
- Dawn C. Fitzhugh, VMD, MPH USDA, APHIS
- Katie Hornberger, DVM, DACT Janssen Veterinary Clinic
- Jenna Dockweiler, DVM, DACT Embark
- Denise Katz, DVM The Love Pet Project

REGISTRATION:
In-person and Virtual Event
Register Online: cvent.me/Gxqmb7
Register by phone: 866-515-0023
For more information: vet.purdue.edu/discovery/croney/engagement.php

MAJOR FUNDING PROVIDED THROUGH A GRANT FROM LIFE OF RILEY AT SPRING POINT.
We also thank Embark, AKC and Indiana Council for Animal Welfare for their generous support.